Standing Business:

Motioned: Be it resolved that the Pharmacy Undergraduate Society approves the PIF Application by Daily Dose Podcast for $500, contingent on purchased equipment being returned to the Faculty of Pharmaceutical Sciences when the project has ended and/or when students are no longer attending UBC Pharmacy.

Moved: Jeremy Seconded: Parsa

Approved: 15; Objections: 0; Abstained: 2

Discussions:

1. VP Internal

a. PIF application by Daily Dose Podcast

- i. The Daily Dose Podcast was created by UBC Pharmacy students that focuses on educating the public from a pharmacy student's point of view. Topics include student life, study tips, and general health knowledge.
- ii. The Daily Dose Podcast Phase 2 is requesting $500 to pay for:
  1. Podbean fee ($108 annually) since their free trial has ended
  2. 2 mid-tier microphones (approximately $403 total, including tax)
- iii. Although PhUS has already funded 2 microphones for the LEAP project of Tom Sun and John Lee on November 2, 2020, Daily Dose consists of 4 members and have had previous difficulties with their current microphone in terms of audio quality and uploading
- iv. Microphones funded by the PIF will be returned to the Pharmacy building once the project has ended, or when cast members are no longer UBC Pharmacy students.
- v. Daily Dose will re-evaluate the use of hosting sites other than Podbean which may be free, such as Anchor
- vi. Daily Dose will need to follow the Faculty's AP-7 policy, which states "As required by the College of Pharmacists of BC (CPBC), VSPs must be supervised by a licensed pharmacist for any community outreach activity that is a pharmacy service, which may include (...) providing information within a pharmacy-context to the public."
